

STRUCTURED NOTES

Adding Structured Notes to your investment portfolio has the capability of providing diversification from an income and / or growth perspective.

Structured Notes

Investors can handpick the approach that aligns with their needs. The selections are broken down into an INCOME or ACCUMULATION strategy.

INCOME STRATEGY

The income strategy is designed for investors who are seeking an investment approach with the potential for consistent income. The customized risk and return profiles of income structured notes can generally be appropriate for many types of portfolios, with a wide range of available options.

ACCUMULATION STRATEGY

The accumulation strategy is ready to deploy any number of products with a focus on attempting to generate the greatest possible gain while taking the least amount of risk as possible. This specific approach will assess the current conditions of the market and help determine the appropriate offering.

Structured Notes may provide the investor with diversification and a unique approach to the stock market; as opposed to just buying something and hoping it goes up.
